

Sean C. Halverson, Ph.D.

Instructor of History

Email: shalverson@alvincollege.edu
Office: C-220

Dr. Sean Halverson is a political and military historian of Early American history, with research interests in the revolutionary era. He has taught a range of American history topics and currently teaches early and modern American history. His most recent publications are published in the academic journals of Early American Studies: An Interdisciplinary Journal, Intelligence and National Security, and the Huntsville Historical Review. He has presented scholarly papers at numerous conferences across the country. Presently, he is working on research projects that focus on the Convention Army and prisoners of war, kidnapping, smallpox in the Continental Army, and how North America's geographic environment shaped warfare during the American Revolution.

EDUCATION

- Ph.D., American History, Mississippi State University
- M.A., History, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee
- B.A., History, University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh

RECENT PUBLICATIONS

- Sean C. Halverson, “British Plans to Rescue Convention Army Prisoners in the American Revolution,” Early American Studies: An Interdisciplinary Journal, 19, no. 4, (2021): 769-814.
- _____. Review of Cecere, Michael. The Invasion of Virginia, 1781. Yardley PN: Westholme Publishing, 2017. Journal of Military History, 83, no 1 January 2019.
- _____. “British Generals’ Quandaries in the American Revolution” in Our Western World From Scientific Revolution to the Present, Volume II (Dubuque IA: Kendall Hunt Publishing Company, 2017), 43-44.
- _____. “Smallpox in the American Revolution” in Our Western World: From Scientific Revolution to the Present, Volume II (Dubuque IA: Kendall Hunt Publishing Company, 2017), 41-42.
- _____. Review of Ferraro, Willaim M. and Lengel, Edward G. Eds. The Papers of George Washington: Revolutionary War Series, Vol. 23: 22 October–31 December 1779. Charlottesville and London: University of Virginia Press, 2015. Journal of Southern History, LXXXIII, no.4 November 2017.
- _____. Review of Huggins, Benjamin L. and Lengel, Edward G. Eds. The Papers of George Washington: Revolutionary War Series, Vol. 24: 1 January–9 March 1780. Charlottesville and London: University of Virginia Press, 2016. Journal of Southern History, LXXXIII, no.4 November 2017.
- _____. “Dangerous Patriots: Washington’s Hidden Army During the American Revolution.” Intelligence and National Security 25, no. 2 (2010): 123-146.

RECENT CO-AUTHOR PUBLICATIONS

- Sean C. Halverson and Whitney A. Snow. “From “Fuller’s Folly” to National Natural Landmark: Huntsville’s Shelta Cave,” Huntsville Historical Review, 43, no. 2 (2018): 15-43.